The Early Career Network's key aim is to provide support and guidance for professional development across all sectors of geoscience, recognising the varied needs of those in different sectors and career stages.

Although aimed principally at those who have started their careers less than 10 years ago, the network is open to anyone interested in its activities.

For more information about the Network, its planned activities, or to get involved, please check out the Network on its various social media platforms.
