How does geological heterogeneity control floodplain groundwater dynamics

① Dominant groundwater flow down-valley
② Flow from river to groundwater
③ Subsurface flow from hillslope to floodplain
Evidence from an upland floodplain in southeast Scotland shows that lateral and vertical geological heterogeneity plays a key role in floodplain groundwater dynamics and groundwater-surface water interaction.