

COVID-19 information for events at the Geological Society

The government has published its plan for living with COVID-19

This means:

From 24 February 2022

- You will no longer be legally required to self-isolate if you test positive for COVID-19. New guidance will advise people who test positive to stay at home and avoid contact with other people.
- You will no longer be legally required to self-isolate if you are an unvaccinated close contact, and will no longer be advised to test for 7 days if you are a fully vaccinated close contact. New guidance will set out precautions for reducing risk to yourself and others.

People are no longer legally required to wear face coverings at events. However, people are still advised to wear them in crowded and enclosed spaces where they may come into contact with people they do not normally meet.

Venues and events are no longer required by law to check the COVID-19 status of their customers. You can still choose to use the NHS COVID Pass on a voluntary basis.

As we welcome you back to the society, our number one priority is the health and wellbeing of our event guests, organisers, suppliers and staff and we will diligently work within the government guidelines recommended:

- We have an adequate supply of fresh air to enclosed spaces where there are people present (in all key event spaces onsite)
- We undertake enhanced regular cleans of the venue
- We request that anyone with COVID-19 or any of the main COVID-19 symptoms stays away.
- We have optional PPE onsite (hand sanitizer and masks)
